This Week's Focus

Math - Our new unit of study is geometry. Embedded within this unit is area/perimeter, measuring angles using a protractor, identifying two-dimensional figures, finding lines of symmetry, identifying angles, identifying parallel and perpendicular lines, and drawing points, rays, line segments, rays and angles.

Science - We will be wrapping up the space unit this week. There will be a test on stars and star patterns on Tuesday. A study guide went home last week.

A space project will be sent home on Friday. Students will research and gather space information in a folder and take it home. The project will be due after Spring Break.

Reading- We will be finishing up "George Washington's Socks." Our next novel will be "Civil War on Sunday." This is a short novel. We will test over vocabulary at the end of the novel. A vocabulary list will be sent home next week.

Writing- Our focus will be on opinion writing.

Grammar- We will be focusing on adverbs and sentence types.

Social Studies- We will be wrapping up the unit on Western Expansion. Our next topic will be the Civil War.
